

RODNEY RUSKIN

CEO - Geoflow, Inc.

Rodney Ruskin is the CEO of Geoflow, Inc. He has a B.S. - U. of Cape Town, and M.S. - Harvard U. Division of Engineering and Applied Physics. He started Agriplas in South Africa in 1969 to develop drip irrigation technology. He emigrated to the U.S. in 1972. In 1975, in partnership with Netafim, he started Agrifim Irrigation International. In 1985 he started Geoflow to develop subsurface drip irrigation technology for landscape, agriculture and wastewater disposal and re-use using the ROOTGUARD technology. Rodney holds seven patents covering drip irrigation technology and has published many technical papers. Member: I.A., ASAE, WEF, SPE, COWA and WOSSA. He has been a board member of COWA for 7 years and is a board member of NOWRA.

